DESIGN ROBERT BRONWASSER

Pully Whiteboard, designed by Robert Bronwasser, is a versatile and stylish solution for modern workspaces, available in both landscape (four legs) and portrait (three legs) orientations, with a writing surface of 165x110 cm and rounded corners. It comes in matte gray-white or black and features, lockable casters for mobility. The portrait version, angled like an easel, is ideal for creative sessions in smaller spaces, while the landscape version includes a shelf for accessories, making it practical for interactive meetings and presentations.
